

damentali statuatur, quod & tibi deinceps observandum erit, assumendo superius ordine præscriptos Cantus firmos.

Cantus firmus.

The first staff shows the Cantus firmus in C major, with notes and accidentals indicated by numbers 1 through 11 above the notes. The second staff shows the Cantus firmus in D major, with notes and accidentals indicated by numbers 8, 10, 5, 6, 10, 10, 10, 12, 10, 5, 8 above the notes. The third staff shows the Cantus firmus in E major, with notes and accidentals indicated by numbers 3, 5, 3, 3, 5, 8, 5, 10, 8, 3, 8 above the notes.

In quo exemplo videri potest, in omni tactu, ubi nulla ratio alia vetuit, Triadem harmonicam adhibitam fuisse, habitâ aliâs progressuum, motuumque ratione sæpius jam repetitâ.

Joseph. Videtur tamen de septimo tactu in octavum in parte Alti respectu Bassi te non observâsse regulam, quæ dicit: de imperfecta ad perfectam per motum contrarium. Tu autem per rectum progressus es.

Aloys. Rectè observas quidem; sed meminisse oportet, paulò ante me dixisse, quòd ad evitandum majus inconveniens in Tricinio, ubi aliter fieri non posset, nonnunquam de eo rigore recedere liceat.

Joseph. Memini quidem; sed videtur mihi, etiam observatâ illâ regulâ rectè fieri potuisse, si de F. in Basso in C. acutum, per motum contrarium progressus institutus fuisset, hac ratione:

The first staff shows the progression of notes in C major, with notes and accidentals indicated by numbers 7, 8, 9, 10, 11 above the notes. The second staff shows the progression of notes in D major, with notes and accidentals indicated by numbers 7, 8, 9, 10, 11 above the notes. The third staff shows the progression of notes in E major, with notes and accidentals indicated by numbers 7, 8, 9, 10, 11 above the notes.
